Dr. Anna Pou. She stayed. She served those who could not serve themselves. She made a difference when government failed. And she paid the price.

For nearly two years she fought to clear her name, taking time off only to lead the courageous and successful fight to change Louisiana's disaster medicine laws and to ensure that what happened to her will never happen again, giving us in the process, America's most progressive disaster medicine reform.

She's earned our thanks and our admiration.
